TABLE 1 · U.S. SOCCER LEAGUE PREFERENCE

L.E.K. Consulting, January 2025 survey · Figure 7 · professional soccer fan subset N = 573

Fan segment	MLS only	Mixed, prefer MLS	Mixed, prefer international	International only
All avid + casual	27%	19%	29%	25%
Avid soccer fans	12%	19%	52%	16%
Casual soccer fans	36%	19%	16%	29%

Original published preference-summary row: MLS / international = 46% / 54% overall, 32% / 68% avid, 55% / 45% casual. Component bars are whole-number rounded and may not sum exactly to published totals.

Meaning: Preference differs by engagement level in this surveyed population. International comprises EPL, Bundesliga, La Liga and Serie A, not EPL alone.

Sampling limit: The larger survey covers 4,520 U.S.-based household media-purchase decision-makers. The figure-specific subset is 573 professional soccer fans. Do not describe this as all U.S. soccer fans.

Original source: https://www.lek.com/sites/default/files/insights/pdf-attachments/sports-fandom-2025.pdf (p. 6, Figure 7)

Source data transcribed/reorganized for research use. This is not a reproduction of the original publisher-designed chart.